Three Reason Why You Might Consider Sending Your Child to Camp WaNaGo:

1. When children go to a day camp, they have an opportunity to decide what activities to participate in, and they have a chance at some independence. They learn skills to become self-reliant and as a result, develop more confidence.
2. While day camp can be like school – it runs without the threat of failure. Kids are just there to have fun; they always achieve success at camp!
3. Participating in day camps can enhance and develop social skills. This can be one of the greatest benefits of the camp experiences as children usually shed their concerns of not being accepted because of what they wear, how they look or what they're good at. Everyone has a place at day camp.
